Directed, produced and photographed by Susan Smiley, this very personal documentary chronicles the filmmaker's mother, Millie, and her family through Millie's battle with schizophrenia, and her subsequent trials within the public health system. A story of madness and dignity, shame and love, this intimate film illuminates a national plight through one family's struggle and helps dispel the stigmas and misconceptions surrounding this harrowing illness.

Panel discussion and Question & Answer session

"Remarkable film about schizophrenia... emotionally powerful, showing that recovery is possible, while at the same time exposing flaws in our mental healthcare system."

Mike Fitzpatrick, Executive Director, NAMI

"Deserving of the widest possible audience... will clearly serve to inform the public and engage viewers about the challenges of coping with a mentally ill loved one... will provide a wonderful training tool for all those in the mental health field."

Peter Weiden, MD, Professor of Psychiatry, SUNY Downstate Medical Center

"I watched your remarkable film. It was such an extraordinary journey... I am blown away and deeply moved. BRAVO!"

Cynthia Mcfadden, Senior Correspondent, ABC News

"Movingly captures a side of schizophrenia that few of us ever see... documenting the day-to-day injustices, tragedies and just plain frustrations experienced both by a woman who has schizophrenia and by those that love her."
