Healthcare, Not Handcuffs

- NAMI and the importance of advocacy in changing crisis response in your community.
Police as THE first responder

- Reliance on the criminal justice system
- Mental health crisis happens outside of business hours
- De-valuing and underfunding mental health care
NAMI & CIT

- 1986 Memphis, TN
- Demanding something better
- Changing hearts and mind with our personal stories
“Over the past thirty years, CIT has become a movement of change. Thousands of communities have been inspired to make their crisis response systems safer . . . ”
CIT is more than just training . . . DO MORE THAN JUST TRAINING!

Provide Your Expertise

- Personal experience
- Knowledge of
  - Mental health system
  - Criminal justice system
- What does the community want to see?
Advocate

- Hold leaders accountable
- Demand resources and change laws
Current efforts to improve law enforcement response to health crisis:
The road to the CJ system is paved with good intentions:

Unintended consequences of:

- To get a clinician, you have to get a cop
- Mandating CIT training
- Handcuffs to get healthcare?
EMBEDDED CO-RESPONSE
To get a clinician, you have to get a cop

- Benefits?
  - May reduce ED transports and increase linkages to community care
  - Individuals with mental illnesses and their families may prefer this to officer only response (but some evidence they prefer no LE involvement at all)

- Unintended consequences?
  - Presence of officer may increase stigma, trauma, criminalization, and potential use of force
  - Further defines MH crisis as a LE issue-and allows us to avoid adequately funding mental health services
  - Expands the role of LE/CJ in the lives of individuals with mental illnesses and their families

Adding social workers to police cars does not shift responsibility away from law enforcement
HANDCUFFS TO GET HEALTHCARE

The Police Response:

What to expect...
Who will respond to your crisis?

- Officers will detain your family member, which will include handcuffing and is for the safety of everyone, including your family member.

- Your statements and historical information are an important part of the mental health investigation (CA WIC §67120.05).
- Officers will inquire about any firearms or other deadly weapons, and in most cases will seize them for safekeeping (pursuant to CA WIC §67102).
- Officers will notify the Mental Evaluation Unit and a SMART unit (officer & clinician) will be dispatched if available.
- If your family member is an adult, the officers and/or the SMART unit cannot disclose information about him/her due to medical records-related privacy laws.

IMPORTANT: You are asking a stranger to come into your home to resolve a crisis. They will only have the information that you provide to them. It is a good practice to gather as much of this information as possible before a crisis occurs.

- Weapons or access to weapons
- Name of your family member in crisis
- Age of family member
- Height & weight of family member
- Clothing description of family member
- Current location of family member
- Diagnosis (Mental Health and/or Medical)
- Current medications (On or Off)
- Drug use (current or past)
- Triggers (what sets them off)?
- State what has helped in previous police contacts
- Identify other persons in the residence or at the location
DoJ / US Attorney’s Office Joint Investigation findings:

“[The agency] does not, however, have a specialized team that consists of officers who have expressed a desire to specialized in crisis intervention and have demonstrated a proficiency at responding to individuals in mental health crisis. While we commend [the agency] for training all officers on crisis matters, this approach assumes incorrectly that all [of the agency’s] officers are equally capable of handling crisis situations and fails to build greater capacity among qualified officers.”
Core Elements of the CIT Model as the Foundation

Ongoing Elements
- Partnerships: Law Enforcement, Advocacy, Mental Health

The Crisis Intervention Team Model: Evidence

- CIT improves officer knowledge, attitudes, and confidence in responding safely and effectively to mental health crisis calls
- CIT increases linkages to services for persons with mental illnesses
- CIT reduces use of force with more resistant subjects
- Findings related to diversion from arrest vary
- Effects are strongest when CIT follows volunteer specialist model
- Some agencies that have moved from the specialist model to mandating CIT training for all have not had good results
- CIT programs are well suited to support implementation of ISMICC recommendations.

The Way Forward: Federal Action for a System That Works for All People Living With SMI and SED and Their Families and Caregivers

December 13, 2017

NAMICon 2020
Recommendation: Focus 4.2  Develop an integrated crisis response system to divert people with SMI and SED from the justice system.

“Community based mental health services must be in place to address the crisis needs of people with SMI and SED. A crisis response system should include services such as 24/7 access to crisis line services staffed by clinicians; warm lines staffed by certified peer specialist, including family and youth support specialist; non-law-enforcement crisis response teams of clinicians and other behavioral health providers able to respond independently to non-violent crisis situations and to correspond with law-enforcement when needed; and dedicated crisis triage centers. A person with SMI or SED who is in crisis should be able to get adequate mental health care in the community without contact with law-enforcement. However, until that goal is achieved, there must be plans for information sharing between crisis service providers and law-enforcement personnel. Sustaining an adequate crisis response system must be addressed through an inter-departmental group, including SAMHSA, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, the Veterans health Administration, and other federal departments.”
